

Ingersoll Rand to be featured on Green Magazine Television

WDCC is proud to announce that Ingersoll Rand, a $1.3 billion global diversified company driven by a 100 year old tradition of technological innovation, will be featured on "Green Magazine Television" during the series 2010-2011 season.

July 13, 2010- "Green Magazine Television" produced by WDCC, is a new television series featuring ecology and energy conscious companies and organizations. The series showcases some of the newest and "greenest" technologies being utilized, and is scheduled to be aired as paid programming on Thursdays at 8:30 AM on The Discovery Channel at 7:30 AM on Saturdays on The Learning Channel on May 16 at 7:00 AM. WDCC has also started selling past programs into syndication.

Ingersoll Rand provides products, services and solutions to increase the efficiency and productivity of industrial and commercial operations and homes, and improve the security, safety, health and comfort of people around the world through four global segments: Climate Solutions, Industrial Technologies, Residential Solutions and Security Technologies. Ingersoll Rand customers count on the reliability of their family of industrial and commercial brands, such as Club Car golf cars, Hussmann stationary refrigeration equipment, Ingersoll Rand industrial equipment, Schlage locks, Thermo King transport temperature-control equipment and Trane air conditioning systems and services. The segment will highlight Ingersoll Rand's progress to become a more sustainable company, the products and solutions they provide to help their customers meet their sustainability goals, details on how Ingersoll Rand can help clients attain Green Building Certification, and tips on how everyone can make a difference.
